Data Benchmarking Module

When was the last time you were able to ask questions of your data?

Having the ability to compare your own compliance data over time to gain insights is vital to understanding the effectiveness of your GRC program. Additionally, being able to compare that data against your industry helps to identify long-term trends and uncover potential issues.

With more than 1.5 million case records providing a baseline, our Benchmarking Module allows deeper analysis of your risk data and allows you to build the reports that are important to you and your executive team. Coupled with our reporting suite you can reveal trends in your GRC data that might have otherwise gone undiscovered.

Utilizing EthicsPoint’s Issue & Event Manager Benchmarking Module customers can:

Reveal trends in your own data vital to your business

- Compare internal data to measure the success of GRC process initiatives and use that data to adapt and modify your GRC processes
- Deliver meaningful trending data to executive teams and board of directors quickly with the ability to automate reporting and distribution
- View and interact with your aggregate and normalized data – or our industry standard reports – in visual and downloadable dashboards
- Understand your industry’s baseline and aggregate population trends to measure your organization’s processes against others

Return on insight (and investment)

- Measure efficacy by tracking Key Performance Indicators and data, overlaying trends against those goals
- Save time through self-directed data analysis and the ability to save and share findings across your organization
- Reduce manual administrative reporting tasks and focus on analysis and business improvement

Program improvements

- Gain views into controls surrounding your GRC processes and identify best practices across your entire organization
- Measure internal trends against your industry to see where you stand, giving context to your GRC program results
